

TOWARDS A PHILOSOPHICAL THEORY OF PRACTICE

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 5 @ 7 P.M.

UNIVERSITY OF SAINT FRANCIS

BROOKSIDE BALLROOM
2701 SPRING STREET • FORT WAYNE, INDIANA

The study of human practice is a growing field among anthropologists, philosophers, social and culture theorists, and ethnologists. Practice theorists cover a wide range of topics from subjectivity, embodiment, and knowledge, to power and social organization. This lecture will explore why practice is important for contemporary philosophy and what contributions philosophers have made over the years.

Dr. Vincent Wargo, assistant professor of philosophy, will trace practice back to its origins in Aristotelian philosophy and forward to 20th century thinkers like Heidegger, Wittgenstein and others.

For additional information, contact Angie Springer,
260-399-8066 or aspringer@sf.edu.

Sponsors:

USF Department of Philosophy and Theology and the
USF School of Liberal Arts and Sciences

2701 Spring Street Fort Wayne, IN 46808
260-399-8000 800-729-4732 sf.edu

SCHOOL OF LIBERAL ARTS
AND SCIENCES
UNIVERSITY OF SAINT FRANCIS

UNIVERSITY of
SAINT FRANCIS™